The Issuer is a mining exploration company focused on metal projects in Mexico and Arizona, USA.

The issuer announces updates at its Silver King Project in central Arizona:

- Collected 23 rock samples, with results showing highs of 1.73% copper, 30 ppm molybdenum, 1,362 g/t silver, 4.1% lead, and 1.3 g/t gold.
- Completed 50% of the planned reconnaissance geologic mapping and sampling, progressed from Peachville Wash westward through Silverado Wash and inward toward the central Silver King shaft, including portions of Comstock Wash and the Crown zone.
- Mapped two broad, apparently separate "pyrite halo" zones, one approximately 800 m wide necked down to the south but open to the north, and a second centered on Silver King extending roughly 600 m wide northwest by at least 1,300 m northeast, with potential to expand further.
- Discovered previously unmapped hydrothermal/magmatic breccias in Silverado Wash exhibiting milled polyolithic fragments in a chlorite-pyrite matrix, some exhibiting pyrite, chalcopyrite and/or copper oxides, invaded by later quartz diorite; and a second similar polyolithic breccia (lacking pyrite) located 700 m to the southwest. The Crown stockwork may be an additional hydrothermal breccia, known to assay good gold and copper values.
- Grab samples from historic shafts and dumps (including "Stone Wall" and "Bilk") suggest increasing alteration intensity at depth, with potassic alteration (potassium feldspar selvages on veins and clots of shreddy biotite), magnetite, chalcopyrite, acanthite and other indicators consistent with a mineralizing porphyry source.
- Alteration intensity, together with an increase in quartz veining within the Silver King pyrite halo, appears to vector toward the central Silver King shaft / Crown / Black Diamond area; additional mapping is planned to cover the remaining areas of eastern Crown, the Black Diamond skarn, Yellowjack Wash and the Apache Mine .
