First Tellurium Subsidiary PyroDelta Energy Gains Additional Industry Spotlight

Article highlights a potential Tellurium based solution for converting waste heat into clean electricity

Vancouver, BC, Canada, September 4, 2026 – First Tellurium Corp. (CSE: FTEL, OTC: FSTTF) ("First Tellurium" or the "Company") reports that its majority-owned subsidiary PyroDelta Energy Corp. ("PyroDelta") has been featured in a new Metal Tech News article highlighting the importance of tellurium in technology and energy systems, with specific focus on PyroDelta's tellurium-based innovations.

The article, "Extracting Clean Energy from Copper Slime," published August 24, 2026, can be viewed here

PyroDelta has developed tellurium-enhanced thermoelectric generators designed to convert waste heat from AI data centers into clean electricity, helping reduce both energy consumption and cooling demands. While the article focuses on data centers, the technology has far broader applications across transportation, industrial processes, factories, and other settings where significant waste heat is generated.

"We're pleased to see Metal Tech News spotlight how PyroDelta's tellurium-based thermoelectric technology can turn the massive waste heat from data centers into a practical source of clean power," said First Tellurium President and CEO Tyrone Docherty.

First Tellurium Extends Strategic Marketing Partnership

First Tellurium also reports that it has extended its engagement with Atlas Digital AI Ltd. ("Atlas Digital") of Hong Kong for an additional one-month period beyond the original six-month contract effective April 17, 2026, as documented in the news release here. Atlas Digital provides digital media, brand awareness, social media management, content creation, and distribution services, and is an arm's-length party to the Company. Under the extension, Atlas Digital will continue delivering targeted content distribution across social media platforms and channels, along with content creation such as ad copy, written materials, video, and advertising assets to further enhance corporate awareness. The Company will pay Atlas Digital a cash fee of US$12,500 for the one-month extension. Atlas Digital does not currently own any shares of the Company.
